Returning to his roots

MARC BEDARD FOLLOWS LONG FAMILY TRADITION OF UNB INVOLVEMENT

YEARS AGO, when the time came to pursue my first post-secondary degree, I never considered going anywhere else; UNB was my first and only choice.

My wife Charlotte Stanton and I moved back to New Brunswick a few years ago, leaving behind Toronto and our respective careers in advertising and accounting. We settled in Upper Cape, NB, on the Northumberland Strait.

Since returning to New Brunswick, I have become involved with UNB serving as treasurer and vice-president of the Associated Alumni. I have also been a member of the advisory board for UNB's faculty of business administration. Now I am beginning my term as president of the Associated Alumni.

I could not be more pleased to be involved once again with this world-class institution.

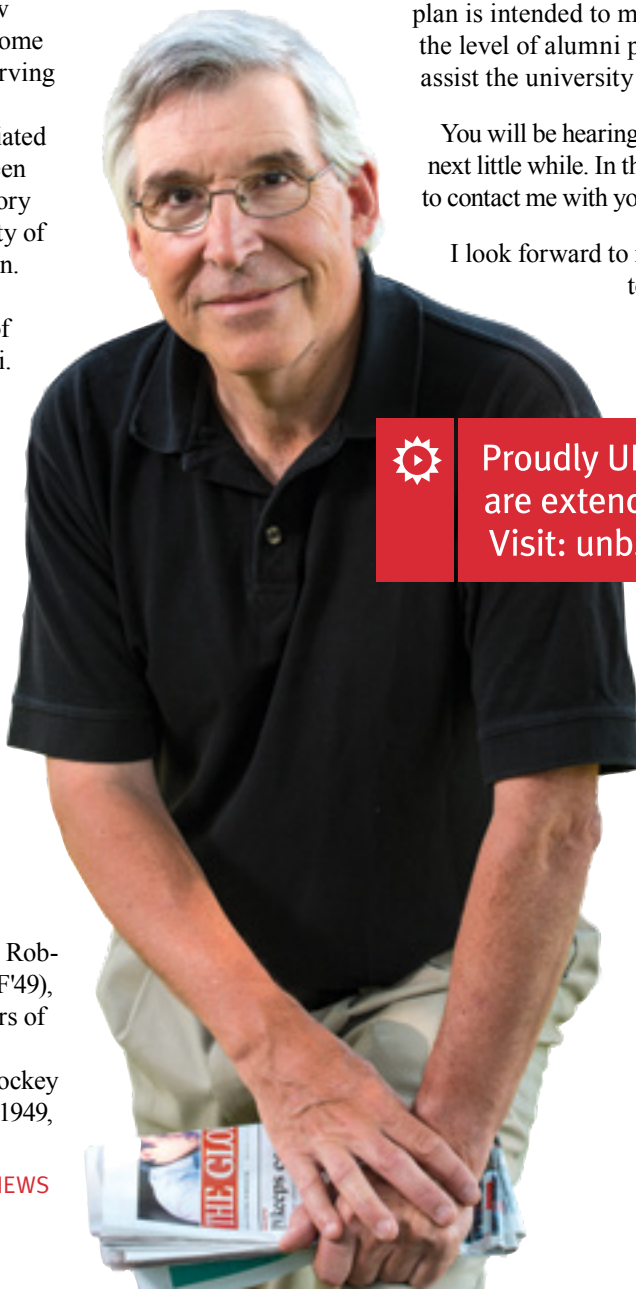

I am a third generation graduate of UNB (BBA'74). My maternal grandfather, William MacDonald, graduated in 1923 with a degree in electrical engineering. My parents, Elizabeth (MacDonald) Bedard (BA'48) and my father, Robert (Ted) Bedard (BScF'49), were lifelong supporters of UNB. My father played varsity hockey for UNB from 1947 to 1949, and was also the assistant coach of UNB's hockey team from the mid 1950s to 1966. My three sisters all attended UNB and my eldest son, Benjamin Bedard (BBA'93, LLB'96), was a Beaverbrook scholar at UNB. I have a niece and nephew who are also graduates.

As this edition of Alumni News arrives on your doorstep, the Associated Alumni Office is in the midst of developing a robust alumni engagement plan. This plan is intended to make transformational changes in the level of alumni participation at UNB, which will assist the university in achieving its strategic vision.

You will be hearing more about this new plan over the next little while. In the meantime, please do not hesitate to contact me with your thoughts, or simply to say hello.

I look forward to meeting many fellow alumni and to serving the Associated Alumni in this role.

Proudly UNB Award nominations are extended to October 31, 2013

Marc Bedard (BBA'74) is president of UNB's Associated Alumni. He has an MBA from McMaster University and is a certified management accountant. Marc and his wife, Charlotte, have three children, Ben, Nicole and Daniel.

Remembering Andy Scott

A TIRELESS ADVOCATE FOR
EQUITY AND SOCIAL JUSTICE

“Andy believed that education could be a tremendously important equalizing force in society.”

THROUGH A RECENT survey, we found that 47 per cent of our first-year students identified themselves as the first in their family to attend university. As we reflect on the passing of our dear friend and colleague Andy Scott (BA'79), I could not help but think that these survey results would have pleased him a great deal.

Andy was deeply concerned throughout his career with issues of social justice and equity. His career is peppered with examples of this fierce belief in action, for instance his brilliant stewardship of the groundbreaking Kelowna Accord.

Andy believed that education could be a tremendously important equalizing force in society. In equipping students of all backgrounds with skills and knowledge, education has the power to transform dreams into reality.

His beliefs led him into politics where he was able to help countless New Brunswickers and Canadians. When that phase of his life ended, Andy returned to UNB just as decades of restraint had led to a diminished capacity in government for the development of public policies that were based on solid, reliable evidence.

He was the chief mover and creator of the Social Policy Research Network (SPRN), an entity that spans all four of New Brunswick's publicly funded universities, bringing academic knowledge from the arts and humanities to bear on the development of economic and social policy. This activity is analogous to the way in which the results of research in the so-called STEM (sciences, technology, engineering and mathematics) disciplines are commercialized and is of similar high value.

By engaging more people, and in making the policies that affect people's lives more responsive to their actual needs, the impact of the SPRN's new collaborative model on society has been profound. The model has contributed to the areas of health, economic development, aging and, most notably, education. A striking example of this can be found in the learning initiative undertaken by Andy and the SPRN in recent years, the purpose of which was to engage New Brunswickers in a discussion about learning in all its forms and to affect a comprehensive change towards a culture of lifelong learning in the province.

Andy will be sorely missed, but his work – so innovative, so empathetic – lives on. Without a doubt, he has earned his rest, but those who knew him best doubt that he is taking it easy.

Perhaps his former boss, Paul Martin, said it best, “I think he's up in heaven now, and I think he's going to organize another social program.”

Sincerely,

H.E.A. (Eddy) Campbell
President and Vice-Chancellor

Recent appointments at UNB

Eddy Campbell begins second term as president

DR. H. E. A. (EDDY) CAMPBELL has been reappointed to a second five-year term as the 18th president and vice-chancellor of the University of New Brunswick. UNB's Board of Governors, Fredericton Senate and Saint John Senate voted overwhelmingly in favour of reappointing the president.

“We are delighted that Eddy has agreed to lead the university for another five years as president and vice-chancellor,” said Kathryn McCain (BA'72), chair of the university's Board of Governors. “Eddy has the vision and the leadership to cultivate innovation, bolster research and foster an environment of transformative learning for our students. Not only is this good for our university, it is also good for New Brunswick.”

Serving on the boards of Future NB and Invest NB, as well as on the province's Research and Innovation Council, Dr. Campbell is a capable and passionate advocate for post-secondary education and its role in fostering a prosperous future in Atlantic Canada and beyond.

Business icon Allison McCain named chancellor

DR. ALLISON D. MCCAIN (BScEE'72, DSc'07), chair of McCain Foods, was selected to become UNB's sixth modern-day chancellor.

“We couldn't be more pleased to welcome an internationally respected business leader like Allison McCain to the position of chancellor,” said Eddy Campbell, president of UNB. “Allison has earned a reputation as a gifted manager and leader who skillfully balances a genuine concern for his employees with a long-term vision for the company. We look forward to benefiting from his experience.”

Dr. McCain was born and raised in Florenceville, NB. He earned a degree in electrical engineering from UNB in 1972 and went on to work for the New Brunswick Telephone Company before accepting a position with McCain Foods in 1975. Over the ensuing 32 years, he held a number of domestic and international positions with the world leader in frozen foods, produce and transportation, eventually becoming the company's chair in 2004.

Dr. McCain has long been an active UNB volunteer and alumnus. In 2003, he was recruited to chair the university's Forging our Futures fundraising campaign, which exceeded its goal by raising an unprecedented $107 million – then a record in Atlantic Canada. Dr. McCain's philanthropic activities extend well into the broader region, where he and McCain Foods support the arts, education, and numerous community activities and organizations.

Dr. McCain is also chair of the Beaverbrook Art Gallery's Board of Governors, and serves on the board of the New Brunswick Business Council. Dr. McCain will succeed Dr. Richard J. Currie (Class of '60, LLD'87), who has served as UNB's chancellor since 2003.

UNB reappoints campus VPs

DR. ANTHONY SECCO has been reappointed to a six-year term as vice-president (Fredericton) academic.

A professor of chemistry, Dr. Secco holds a PhD from the University of British Columbia and has extensive experience in university administration. He served as dean of graduate studies at the University of Manitoba and vice-president (academic and research) at Cape Breton University before assuming the role as vice-president of UNB's Fredericton campus in 2008.

Dr. Secco has received substantial funding from the Natural Sciences and Engineering Research Council of Canada over the course of his academic career and is well published in internationally renowned peer-reviewed journals. His research interests, initially focused on small molecule crystallography, later developed into structural studies of novel DNA fragments. Dr. Secco has been twice recognized for his excellence in teaching with university awards in 1996 and 2004.

DR. ROBERT MACKINNON has been reappointed to a second five-year term as vice-president (Saint John).

A member of the UNB community since his appointment as dean of arts in 2001, Dr. MacKinnon has served as vice-president of UNB's Saint John campus since 2008. He holds a bachelor of arts from Mount Allison University, a master of arts from Memorial University of Newfoundland, and a doctorate from the University of British Columbia. His research interests include the broad areas of the geography of Atlantic Canada, rural and transportation history, and urban geography.

As an educator, he has taught regional and cultural geography at Memorial University, and the University College of the Cariboo in Kamloops, BC (now Thompson Rivers University). In addition to his teaching appointments, Dr. MacKinnon has held the positions of visiting professor at the University of Bonn, Germany (1998-1999), and visiting teaching and research fellow at Obirin University in Tokyo (1995). ↷

UNIVERSITY OF NEW BRUNSWICK president and vice-chancellor Eddy Campbell has been named one of Atlantic Canada's top CEOs.

Since being selected as UNB's president in 2009, Dr. Campbell has sharpened the university's mission, despite managing through difficult financial times.

“In providing opportunities for us to take a hard look at who we are and where we want to go as a university, Eddy's leadership has set the stage for UNB's impact to be felt even more greatly in the province and across the country as a whole,” says Kathryn McCain (BA'72), chair of the university's Board of Governors.

Dr. Campbell said he is humbled by the recognition and honoured to work with so many thought-provoking leaders at UNB.

“Working closely with world-class researchers and educators, as well as with successful entrepreneurs such as Richard Currie (Class of '60, LLD'87), Desh Deshpande (MScEE'75, DSc'01) and Gerry Pond

(BA'66, DLitt'04), has been educational,” said Campbell. “Their commitment to giving back to Canada and the region is particularly inspiring. Their example motivates me to leverage UNB's resources for the benefit of Atlantic Canada, most notably in terms of spreading the entrepreneurial spirit and helping to keep our talent here at home.”

This recent distinction by Atlantic Business Magazine follows on the heels of other recent accomplishments for UNB, including being named one of the top employers in the Atlantic region. UNB also increased its standing across a number of categories in Maclean's most recent annual university rankings.

Atlantic Business Magazine's Top 50 CEO awards are Atlantic Canada's premiere celebration of corporate leadership excellence. Nominations are submitted by readers, and nominees are judged according to their corporate, community and industry leadership; their company's growth in recent years; and their unique managerial abilities. ㄿ

Junior Achievement inducts UNB alumni into Business Hall of Fame

THREE OF NEW BRUNSWICK'S MOST INFLUENTIAL BUSINESS LEADERS HONOURED

HANS W. KLOHN (DSc'11), Aldéa Landry (LLB'71, LLD'02) and Mike Wilson (BScCE'75) will be inducted into the New Brunswick Business Hall of Fame on Nov. 12 at the Saint John Trade and Convention Centre.

Hans W. Klohn was born in Kiel, Germany, and came to New Brunswick in 1952. Shortly thereafter he partnered with K.C. Irving to create Ocean Steel & Construction Limited. Under Klohn's direction, the three original divisions of the company – steel fabrication, precast concrete manufacturing and industrial construction – flourished to become Strescon Limited, Marque Construction Limited and FCC Construction. Our Saint John campus is proud to bear his name on one of our most prominent buildings – the Hans W. Klohn Commons, which opened in September 2011.

Aldéa Landry, president of Landal Inc., vice-president of Diversis, former deputy premier in Frank McKenna's government, and the first woman to chair the Atlantic Provinces Economic Council will also be inducted. A former director of the Bank of Canada and co-chair of the Downey-Landry Commission on Excellence in Education in New Brunswick, she has served on the board of numerous organizations and companies at the provincial and national level.

Mike Wilson is president of The AIL Group of Companies, a world leader in innovative engineered solutions using corrugated metal structures, retaining walls, sound barrier walls, prefabricated bridges and corrugated pipe. The AIL Group is headquartered in Sackville, NB, with manufacturing plants and sales/engineering offices throughout North America. ㄿ

UNB-AFFILIATED TEAMS DOMINATE INNOVATION AWARDS

UNB STUDENTS and technology dominated the 2013 Knowledge Industry Recognition & Achievement (KIRA), and New Brunswick Innovation Foundation (NBIF) awards.

UNB students and brothers Coady (BScCE'12, current MScCE student) and Drew Cameron (BBA'11, current MBA student) won nearly $200,000 in cash investments and professional services in this spring's NBIF's Breakthru competition for TotalPave, a smartphone app that allows engineers to acquire and wirelessly report pavement conditions.

IntroHive was the big winner at the KIRA awards. Founder Jody Glidden's (BBA'06) team won the Most Promising New Start-up Award. More than half of IntroHive's developers are UNB computer science graduates.

Award-winning students have also been supported by the faculty of business administration's International Business and Entrepreneurship Centre, the faculty of engineering's Technology Management and Entrepreneurship Centre, the Pond-Deshpande Centre for Innovation & Entrepreneurship, and UNB's Office of Research Services.

UNB's NBIF Breakthru finalists were:

- TotalPave
- RTV Group
- Cetex
- Black Magic

UNB's 2013 KIRA finalists were:

- Green Imaging Technologies Inc.
- LuminUltra
- IntroHive
- TotalPave
- Inversa Systems
- Smart Skin Technologies
- Dr. Vicky Chester, co-director of UNB's Andrew and Marjorie McCain Human Performance Lab
- Remsoft Inc.
- Dr. Ali Ghorbani (PhD'96), dean of UNB's faculty of computer science

Dr. Paul [Jake] Arsenault (BScME'99, PhD'04), CEO of Inversa Systems, a company founded on technology developed for his PhD research at UNB, accepts his KIRA award.

UNB to host national soccer championships

From Nov. 6 to 10, UNB will host the CCAA and CIS men's soccer championships.

SOCCER FANS will have a first-hand opportunity to watch teams battle it out on the field with two championships this November.

UNB is hosting the Canadian Collegiate Athletic Association (CCAA) men's soccer national championship from Nov. 6 to 9 on the Saint John campus. From Nov. 7 to 10, the Fredericton campus will host the Canadian Interuniversity Sport (CIS) men's soccer championship.

"It is a long, challenging week for every team, but there is nothing like being at a national championship and win or lose, the players, coaches and spectators will take away lasting memories from the event," says David Munro (BPE'84, BEd'85, MPE'90), director of athletics, recreation & wellness at UNB Saint John.

"UNB is very excited to be bringing yet another CIS championship to our city, our eighth in the past ten years," says Dave Morell (BA'72), Varsity Reds marketing manager. "Each time we host a CIS event we provide an opportunity for local and provincial fans to experience the best we have to offer in Canada in university sport." 🎉

PLANNING 2013-14 UNDERWAY

ASSOCIATED ALUMNAE PLAN A BUSY YEAR AHEAD; FOCUS ON ALUMNAE ENGAGEMENT

THE ASSOCIATED ALUMNAE executive council has had a busy year and is planning for the future. Martine Stewart (BA'91), chair of the planning and operations committee, is excited about the positive response to the strategic planning exercise the council is undertaking. In the coming year, the Associated Alumnae will focus on alumnae engagement, in partnership with the Associated Alumni. Karen Taylor (BA'72, MPA'88), president of the executive alumnae council, is delighted with the support from the Alumni Council and the Alumni Office.

“We have a very positive working relationship and we look forward to working together to achieve mutual goals, particularly in the area of alumnae/alumni engagement,” says Karen.

The Associated Alumnae will continue its tradition of awarding scholarships to female students and hosting a luncheon in their honour. A successful collaboration with Renaissance College, forged in 2012, will continue in 2013-14. An updated, Those Certain Women, a publication chronicling the history of the Associated Alumnae, is completed and will be launched in the coming year. An annual alumnae luncheon is planned for the Saint John campus. In addition, recommendations for honorary degree recipients will be submitted by the council. Alumnae are encouraged to become involved with alumnae activities and to attend the semi-annual and annual meetings of the Associated Alumnae. ☺

INTERNATIONAL

UNB HAS A LONG HISTORY OF COLLABORATION WITH INTERNATIONAL PARTNERS, THROUGH WELCOMING INTERNATIONAL STUDENTS, OFFERING PROGRAMS AND COURSES TO STUDENTS OUTSIDE OF CANADA AND CONDUCTING RESEARCH WITH AN INTERNATIONAL FOCUS.

INTERNATIONAL STUDENTS

contribute greatly to the academic, social and overall community well being of the university. It was for these exact reasons that Laurett Nwaonumah (BSc'13) (featured on the cover) of Nigeria, was selected as the Spring 2013 Convocation valedictorian for our Saint John campus.

Proudly UNB, Nwaonumah graduated with a bachelor of science degree, majoring in biology psychology. Nwaonumah has been a dean's list student each year, a member of the Golden Key International Honour Society and a Graduating Student Leadership Award recipient. She was also the president of the Multicultural Society and its former promotions coordinator and vice president.

A track athlete with UNB's Varsity Reds program, Nwaonumah was an active volunteer, both on campus and off, including the Student Mentor Program at Hazen White/ St. Francis School.

“Four years ago, I sat in an office in Lagos, Nigeria, with an agent as we deliberated post secondary institutions to attend,” said Nwaonumah in her valedictorian address. “I am a very proud Nigerian, but I have always been interested in other cultures. This swayed my decision to come to Canada and attend UNBSJ. ▶▶

“The warm atmosphere in the classrooms, where professors know you by name, the multiculturalism on campus, and the welcoming attitude of the Saint John community influenced my growth into a better person,” says Nwaonumah.

▶ INTERNATIONAL STUDENTS from over 70 countries make up almost 12 per cent of UNB's student population. Scovasky Ramrattan (BBA'08), from Trinidad and Tobago, is one of them. Ramrattan is in her final year of the master of business administration program on the UNB Fredericton campus.

For Ramrattan, coming to UNB was the right choice, but for the many students in Trinidad and Tobago who want to study in their home country, UNB offers full degree programs in business and education, through a partnership with UWI School of Business and Applied Studies Limited (trading as ROYTEC).

Since 1998, UNB's faculty of business administration has offered its bachelor of business administration degree program to ROYTEC students.

In 1999, the faculty of education began partnering with ROYTEC to offer a bachelor of education (in primary education) degree, and in 2008, began delivering its master of education degree program. UNB's education program has been widely successful in Trinidad and Tobago. Seventy per cent of all the country's classroom teachers hold an education degree from UNB.

When Ramrattan graduates next year, she will join the more than 3,000 alumni from Trinidad and Tobago, the largest alumni group outside of Canada.

RANY IBRAHIM (ITP'03) came to UNB as an international student from Egypt. Now a marketing manager in Halifax, NS, he is one of RBC's Top 25 Canadian immigrants for 2013. He is the only Nova Scotian to receive the honour.

In its fifth year, the RBC 2013 Top 25 Canadian Immigrants award program serves to uncover and celebrate the inspiring stories and remarkable achievements of Canadian immigrants from all walks of life who strive to make Canada a better place.

Ibrahim is involved in many community activities. He has been a director on the Cape Breton County Economic Development Authority, a member of the Nova Scotia Minister of Immigration Advisory Council, and is serving a three year term on the board of governance of Cape Breton University. He has also been a university instructor, freelance writer and speaker, and volunteered with organizations such as Amnesty International, Human Rights Watch, and the Canadian Red Cross.

“It has been an interesting journey for me to date, many things I didn't dream of or imagined happened to me,” says Ibrahim. “From being this international student who doesn't know much about the country to being an active professional that is working on promoting the country and the province to others was quite the shift. It hits deep in me every time I travel overseas to recruit immigrants and look in their eyes and see me more than ten years ago.” ▶▶

IN JULY, UNB WELCOMED

21 guidance counsellors from 12 countries as part of the university's international recruitment efforts. UNB's international recruiters work closely with guidance counsellors to identify students in their schools that are a fit for UNB and New Brunswick.

Counsellors from Belgium, Bermuda, China, El Salvador, Honduras, Jordan, Kenya, Rwanda, Tanzania, Uganda, the United States and the United Kingdom spent three days touring the Fredericton and Saint John campuses, attending events designed to increase New Brunswick's profile as an international education destination. They also took part in workshops on Canadian admissions processes, financial aid, scholarships and student services.

Fredericton is New Brunswick's largest city, located on the banks of the beautiful Saint John River. The UNB Fredericton downtown core is a vibrant and diverse scene, including many restaurants, cafes, and shops. Saturday morning Farmers Market offers a wide variety of fresh produce and artisan goods. The city is also home to several trails along the river, and many parks and recreational facilities.

On campus: access to 11 residence halls; the Currier Library; a health centre; a fitness centre; the Canada Games Stadium; and multiple student clubs and societies.

Saint John is New Brunswick's largest centre and is located on the renowned Bay of Fundy, home of the world's highest tides. Saint John is also Canada's oldest incorporated city, dating back to 1785. Today, Saint John is an increasingly multicultural mix of people, with a dynamic business community and a vibrant arts and culture scene.

The UNB Saint John campus is located north of the city's "uptown" area and overlooks the majestic Kennebec Falls. The campus is a vibrant and diverse scene, including shopping, concerts, sporting events, social clubs, and a wide variety of restaurants. Nature lovers will enjoy Rockwood Park, one of the largest urban parks in North America, overlooking the Atlantic Ocean; one of the largest river systems; and numerous beaches in and around the city.

On campus: An average first year class has 31 students. The campus features two modern residence facilities; contemporary student services; a health clinic; a library; a fitness centre; the Canada Games Stadium; and multiple student clubs and societies.

UNB launched its new international viewbook this summer. Here is just some of what you'll find in it. The entire viewbook is located at unb.ca/international/prospective.

Dr. Ann Sherman (MEd'93), dean of education at UNB Fredericton, met with Samuel Hinds (BScChE'67, DSc'94), president of Guyana, during her visit to the country to deliver a management leadership course to teachers and administrators.

DR. ANN SHERMAN (MEd'93), dean of the faculty of education at UNB Fredericton, was in Guyana last spring to help present teachers and administrators with certificates of completion for the Principles and Practices of Educational Institutional Management course.

Instructors at Cyril Potter College of Education, the University of Guyana and the Institute of Distance and Continuing Education all took part in the course, which was offered in three two week sessions and delivered by UNB education faculty members.

The management leadership course, which began in November 2012, was a collaboration between the Guyana Ministry of Education and the World Bank, as part of the Guyana Improving Teacher Education Project (GITEP). The goal of the project was to strengthen educational management practices, build capacity of teachers and sharpen classroom teaching.

“Research has shown over and over again that without strong leadership in schools and in teacher preparation programs, and unless educational leaders get really in touch with thinking about education, nothing different will happen in schools,” says Dr. Sherman.

According to Sherman, there has been a big push in the Caribbean in recent years, for more capacity building in teacher instructional skills, pedagogy and leadership development.

“In addition to the Guyana teacher education project, we finished up (in July) a three year project in St. Lucia that also had a leadership component and included a curriculum (math and literacy) component.”

As a result of the success of the Institutional Management course, the faculty of education has had requests from the Government of Guyana to conduct a number of individual support projects where it will be reviewing curriculum at the University of Guyana.

“This project in Guyana has been mutually beneficial,” says Sherman. “We’re continuing to work with the government on individual projects and are looking for ways to work together to help build the education system in Guyana.”

UNB Fredericton is involved in education projects in three Caribbean countries: Trinidad and Tobago, Guyana and St. Lucia.

POWER UP!

A PAIR OF UNB GRADS ARE TRANSFORMING ATLANTIC CANADA'S ENERGY LANDSCAPE

Right: Gaëtan Thomas, president and CEO of NB Power*

AS THE PRESIDENT and CEO of Emera Inc., Nova Scotia's energy holdings company, Chris Huskilson (BScEE'79, MScEE'82) spends most of his time looking forward. For those who care to dig deeper, however, it is Huskilson's background that provides insight into his current role as one of Atlantic Canada's energy leaders.

Born and raised in Shelburne, NS, Huskilson jokes that his family is nonetheless "forming a bit of a long-standing relationship with UNB."

A generation after their father completed two degrees in electrical engineering at UNB, all three of Huskilson's sons have studied engineering at the university (two have already graduated, while another recently completed his third year).

It was the quality of the university's engineering program that first lured Huskilson to New Brunswick in the late 1970s.

"UNB was offering a much better program than others at the time, so that's what attracted me," admits Huskilson. "Eugene Hill was a mentor in those early years - he got me interested in power engineering and the energy business in general."

Huskilson followed up his first degree at UNB with a student position at NS Power, which soon turned into an opportunity for graduate work. "I wanted to stay in Atlantic Canada after I graduated, so I spoke to management at NS Power about potentially tailoring my master's work to their needs. They agreed, so I completed my graduate thesis at UNB while also working at NS Power."

Today Huskilson applies the lessons from his early days in the energy sector to the current context in Atlantic Canada. He sees similarities.

"When I first started working, the industry was experiencing a bit of a boom," explains Huskilson. "After the lull that followed in the 1980s, we're now enjoying a renaissance as aging assets and an emphasis on sustainable development drives new projects."

But there are differences now too, adds Huskilson, most notably in terms of increased collaboration between jurisdictions.

"Back then, provinces were self-sufficient and a lot of the planning and work was happening independently," says Huskilson. "Today we're becoming more and more regional all the time. The fact that Newfoundland is a huge source of energy and opportunity for all of Atlantic Canada – and maybe even the entire northeast – that's really become a great potential for the whole region and begins to move us toward a regional view of how energy will be sourced and supplied."

Huskilson points to the Lower Churchill maritime link project as a specific example of that cooperation, noting that for the first time in 30 years North America's largest untapped hydro resource will once again be developed for the benefit of Atlantic Canadians.

Huskilson is also quick to reference the growing spirit of collaboration between Emera and NB Power over the last decade. For example, in 2007, the two regional energy giants developed the first new international connection between Canada and the United States in 30 years. ▶▶

» “Electricity is essential for citizens and is one of the backbones of our economy, therefore it is critical that we get it right,” adds Huskilson. “UNB’s contribution to the energy sector is largely a technical one, through the sharing of expertise and capacity. But the other thing that UNB is focusing on that is crucial for the region is the innovation and entrepreneurship agenda. This is a great opportunity for the university to make a major contribution to the region.”

Gaëtan Thomas (BScEE’82) agrees. From the humble neighbourhood of Tilley Road in the northern part of the province, Thomas is the person responsible for keeping the lights on everywhere in New Brunswick.

The president and CEO of NB Power, together with Huskilson, is emblematic of the university’s impact on Atlantic Canada’s social and economic development (like Huskilson, Thomas also has two children who attended UNB – one daughter graduated with a degree in computer science, while another completed a degree in chemical engineering).

Thomas’s upbringing was rooted in values that taught him the importance of hard work and a solid education. “In those times, most people in my area didn’t study further than grade 12. Many went on to work in the mining sector or in various industries in the region. But my parents told me that in the longer term, a good education would bring me more than having my own car at 18,” he recalls.

After graduating from high school, Thomas chose to study electrical engineering at UNB. For him, it was already a challenge to attend an English university after completing all of his primary and secondary education in French. But his thirst for knowledge, as well as his academic abilities, led him to finish a year early.

He was recruited by NB Power in 1982, kick-starting a lifelong career in New Brunswick’s energy sector.

Always ready to confront new challenges, Thomas earned the trust and respect of his peers with his impeccable work ethic and attention to detail. By the time he became president and CEO of the provincial utility in 2010, Thomas knew NB Power inside and out. He had worked on many of its major projects and understood the complexity of the province’s power grid.

The first Acadian to head the crown corporation, Thomas recently set in motion one of the most ambitious projects ever undertaken in the province: the transformation of New Brunswick’s electricity distribution system into a smart grid.

The objective of the smart grid is to make electricity more sustainable by reducing and shifting the demand for power, which will in turn allow the province to avoid the need for a mega power generation project in the foreseeable future.

“The way we use and generate electricity is significantly changing in New Brunswick. We want to place our customers at the centre of our electrical system and work with them to modernize the way our energy is consumed in the future,” said Thomas, when he announced a partnership with Siemens Canada for the creation of the province’s smart grid.

“The introduction of smart grid initiatives will provide choices for customers to control their future electricity cost. This agreement will have a positive impact on our customers, the provincial economy, as well as the environment,” he added.

Both Thomas and Huskilson agree that these are exciting times to be involved in the rapidly evolving energy industry. Both also trace their current knowledge and success to the quality training they received at UNB years ago.

Gaëtan Thomas (centre) has worked at NB Power since 1982

In total, more than $1.4 million has been contributed to the Community Health Clinic.

From its inception, the clinic has benefited from the generous support of alumni, faculty, staff and friends.

Community Health Clinic recognized for its vital role

J. W. MCCONNELL FOUNDATION AWARD MOST RECENT ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

EACH YEAR UNB's Community Health Clinic (CHC) provides healthcare and outreach services to thousands without access to family doctors. Since its inception in 2002, the clinic has evolved into an interdisciplinary, nurse-managed facility providing healthcare for at-risk populations, new immigrants and refugees.

The clinic recently received the Community Service Learning Award from the J. W. McConnell Family Foundation. This is on the heels of earning the Grand Prize in the Pond-Deshpande Social Enterprise Pitch competition and Progress Media selecting it as a finalist in the Innovation in Practice Program.

A $500,000 grant from the T. R. Meighen Family Foundation to the UNB Forging Our Futures campaign provided stability in the early years. Later, in 2011, mining executive Graham Farquharson's (Class of '64, DSc'11) pledge of $500,000 to the faculty of nursing was directed to the clinic. Several thousand are served each year due to the generous contributions that allow the clinic to continue its mission.

Today, the clinic provides transformative learning experiences and research opportunities for students from a variety of disciplines. Going forward, the clinic hopes to expand educational opportunities, conduct additional research and support healthcare innovation. As it works toward a sustainable model of healthcare and post-secondary service delivery, it continues to serve a critical role in the community. ➤

Joan Kingston (BN'78) is nurse manager of the Community Health Clinic in Fredericton and an instructor in UNB's faculty of nursing.

Leanne Fitch takes charge as chief of Fredericton city police

ATLANTIC CANADA GETS FIRST FEMALE POLICE CHIEF

LEANNE FITCH (BA'85, MA'95) is the first woman to become chief of a municipal police force in Atlantic Canada.

While she was drawn to UNB for its athletics programs—she played for the UNB Red Sticks field hockey team—her earliest UNB memories are visits with her mother, who worked as an office assistant in the faculty of education.

Both of her parents considered the opportunity for post-secondary education in their hometown of Fredericton a gift, one that Fitch continues to cherish.

“I can say with absolute honesty that I loved my time researching and writing from the stacks at the Harriet Irving Library. I found wandering through and finding ‘just the right books’ to settle in on, fascinating. With every bit of learning I wanted more and that itch has never gone away.”

Her work as an undergraduate and graduate student in sociology at UNB spanned the fields of law, justice, policing and human relations. She says that higher education has made a tremendous impact on her capacities for analytical thought, understanding and communication—skills that have served her well in her 28-year policing career.

While at UNB Fitch played varsity sports and was a member of the campus police. But it's the wisdom and mentorship of her professors that she appreciates most.

“The support, and the gentle and humble mentorship from Nancy [Nason-Clark], Peter [McGahan], Hugh [Lautard] and Will [van den Hoonaard] in particular, are gifts in my lifetime that I will always be grateful for,” says Fitch.

As chief, Fitch is committed to improving professionalism, compassion, ethics and community partnerships in the field of policing. She was named officer of the year by the Atlantic Women in Law Enforcement and the International Association of Women Police in 2002 and 2003, respectively. 🍷

John Higgins creates opportunities for students

SHOWS GRATITUDE TO FACULTY OF BUSINESS

JOHN HIGGINS, (C-ELC'02) (above, front left) vice-president, operations at Cervus Equipment, a Calgary-based company, was on the Saint John campus to host a business case competition.

On May 27, Cervus Equipment presented the opportunity to 130 of Saint John's MBA students to show its gratitude for the faculty's approach to teaching business strategy. Five teams were shortlisted from the program with the winning team receiving $3,000.

Higgins, a 2002 graduate of UNB's e-commerce program, has his own unique connection with New Brunswick and with UNB. "We have a deep connection with New Brunswick," says Higgins, a Saint John native. "And I'm a huge supporter and believer in Saint John." Higgins was instrumental in the refurbishment of the Canada Games Stadium as the chair of the fundraising committee.

Higgins had such a positive experience as a student at UNB – from the quality of the program to what it did for his career – that providing the same hometown educational experience to others has become a top priority. Higgins has remained heavily involved in the Saint John campus and community, despite being based in Calgary.

Cervus Equipment recognizes the high demand for skilled workers, and is tapping into the MBA program to find the employees it needs to fuel its growth.

Cervus Equipment also participates in UNB Saint John's internship program having hired four student interns last year. This past summer, Cervus Equipment welcomed two more UNB Saint John MBA students. 🎉

Celebrating 25 years

UNB'S TME DIPLOMA PROGRAM REACHES NEW HEIGHTS

THE DR. J. HERBERT SMITH ACOA chair and the Technology Management and Entrepreneurship (TME) diploma program turned 25 this year.

Over those 25 years, the TME diploma program has graduated more than 500 students and more than 2,000 students have taken individual TME courses to learn entrepreneurial and management skills.

"The future of the TME program is filled with anticipation as the program aligns not only with UNB's strategic plan, but the strategic plans of both the Province of New Brunswick and the City of Fredericton," said Dharendra Shukla, Dr. J. Herbert Smith ACOA chair. "As TME students explore their skills in technology management and entrepreneurship, they will become prepared to build a more sustainable economic community while having their creativity and desire for innovation ignited." 🎉

Red and black roots of the Juno-award winning music artist

UNB ALUMNUS AND CURRENT
MASTER'S STUDENT JOEL VIOLETTE
WON A JUNO AWARD THIS YEAR
FOR HIS METAL/HARD MUSIC
ALBUM OF THE YEAR ON BEHALF OF HIS BAND, WOODS OF YPRES.

“From professors Mills, Geyssen, Kerr and James, I got a training in Latin and Greek, not to mention English, rivaling any classics program in North America,” says Joel Violette. “I love languages, and UNB was the place to be.”

JOEL VIOLETTE (MA'11) received his first UNB Alumni News the same day his acceptance letter to UNB's bachelor of computer science program arrived in the mail.

This will be the Juno award winning music artist's third degree – his second at UNB.

He completed his master's degree in classics at UNB after studying American history in the United States; he enrolled in a PhD program in medieval studies at the University of Toronto when he changed course.

“Not only did I gain an education in classical languages, history, philosophy and literature, but also a mind expansion in critical thought and in expressing thought in writing,” says Violette.

He always loved computers and gadgets, and spent almost as much time playing with software as words when writing his master's thesis.

“A stunning number of my friends went through the UNB computer science program and now have fulfilling, rewarding careers. When I was having second thoughts about a PhD in classics, my friends suggested UNB CS. All of them. Often,” said Joel.

A computer science student and classics alumnus are just two dimensions of Violette's ties to UNB. He laughs as he mentions that he also played baseball for UNB in 2003, and again in 2008 - both years the team won the Canadian Intercollegiate Baseball Association's national championships. His father, Gilman (BScCE'80; MScCE'90) and sister, Jeanne (BScKin'13) are also proud UNB alumni.

Though he's excelled academically and athletically, his name is likely to ring a bell for yet another reason: the 28 year old travelled to Regina, SK, this spring to accept a Juno Award in the Metal/Hard Music Album of the year category on behalf of his band, Woods of Ypres. Though Woods of Ypres is no longer together, the self taught multi instrumentalist is still making music with his new melodic metal group, Thrawsunblat.

What's next for Joel Violette?

Now working with IBM as part of his third year co op term in computer science, he is promoting his band's albums and writing new music – what he describes as a blend of heavy metal and Maritime folk – for the next one.

Before concluding our interview, of course, he plopped down to hammer out a tune on the room's grand piano. 🎹

Canada's Identity, Focus of 2013 Eaton Lecture

AS THE CENTENNIAL of the First World War approaches, the debate over whether Canada is the peaceable nation of Lester Pearson or a militarist nation forged in wartime is heating up. The 2013 Eaton Lecture will tackle this issue head on.

Entitled Peaceable Kingdom or Warrior Nation?: Canada's Identity Crisis, the lecture will take place Nov. 13 at 7 p.m. in the Eaton Theatre at the Royal Ontario Museum in Toronto. All Toronto area alumni are encouraged to attend.

The 2013 Eaton Lecture will be given by Lee Windsor, deputy director of UNB's Gregg Centre for the Study of War and Society. Dr. Windsor specializes in Canadian Army history from the Second World War up to and including current missions abroad.

To reserve a seat for the Eaton Lecture, please contact Laura Balakrishnan at laura.balakrishnan@unb.ca or 506.447.3031 by Nov. 6. Visit unb.ca/eatonlecture for more information.

Presented by UNB's Gregg Centre for the Study of War and Society, the Eaton Lectures focus on military history and stewardship. They are made possible by the generous support of UNB alumnus and former Chancellor Fredrik S. Eaton and the Catherine and Fredrik Eaton Charitable Foundation. The Eaton Lectures are also supported by John K. F. Irving.

UNB's Gregg Centre is a national centre of excellence for the study of war and society. Its programs cater to graduate students, armed forces personnel, scholars, high school teachers and students of all ages.

“Those fond recollections, coupled with his desire to salute the memory of his wife, led Don to create the Rosemary Wilcox Memorial Scholarship in Earth Sciences at UNB.”

Alumnus makes touching gesture to honour late wife

DON WILCOX CREATES ROSEMARY A. WILCOX MEMORIAL SCHOLARSHIP IN EARTH SCIENCES

DON WILCOX (Class of '47) found his true calling after his university experience, but the United Kingdom native never forgot his days at the University of New Brunswick – both as a student and then through his interaction with campus officials as a businessman.

Don became familiar with adversity at an early age. His family immigrated to Canada from Cardiff, Wales, in 1931 when he was six, settling first in Montreal, then Ottawa. After a return visit to the United Kingdom, Don and his mother set sail for Canada from Liverpool on Sept. 2, 1939, the day before Great Britain declared war on Germany. Only hours after the war was declared, their ship, the Athenia, was torpedoed. Don and his mother were rescued and returned to Cardiff until May of the following year, when their passage to Canada was finally successful.

After Don completed high school, he attended UNB, first in geology, then forestry and finally biology, but because he was colour blind, he could not develop his skill set in those professions. He never gave up on education, however, returning to Europe, specifically Ireland, to study at Queen's University Belfast in 1957. That's where he met and fell in love with Rosemary. They married a short time later and returned to Canada in 1961, eventually settling in the Halifax area.

In spite of life's challenges, Don drew on the positives of his life experiences and education to develop a thriving sales career, where his easy-going manner and engaging personality became valuable strengths for Philips Electronics. Now retired, he shares his life-changing experience aboard the Athenia with visitors to the HMCS Sackville in Halifax.

Don has always held high regard for UNB, a special setting that remains close to his heart. The Rosemary A. Belinda's Rings

By: Corinna Chong (MA'10)

Published by: NeWest Press 2013 • ISBN-10: 1927063272

Half-Asian teenager Grace (but she prefers Gray) is not a perfect supermom-in-the-making like her older sister Jessica, and would rather be a marine biologist than a mother—although she does take care of her special needs kid brother Squid better than anyone else in her family. When her mother Belinda abruptly runs out on her family and flies across the Atlantic to study crop circles in the English countryside, Grace is left alone to puzzle out her life, the world, and her unique place within it.

Three Wrongs

By: Chuck Bowie (BSc'77)

Published by: MuseItUp Publishing 2013 • ISBN: 978-1-77127-258-2

Sean Donovan is doing all right; he has two offshore bank accounts and an American one with all three filling up nicely. His network of clients know his business plan: he is willing to acquire whatever rare or inaccessible product is needed, be it the security plans to an art gallery, a rare Etruscan goblet or a recorded conversation from a former American president. And he will steal and deliver it to them, no questions asked nor answered.

This story follows Donovan as he travels from Bucharest to London to Montreal and New York. Will he repent his wicked ways? Will he quit the business before those he has wronged catch up to him? Will he discover that three wrongs don't make a right?

Inventing Academic Freedom: The 1968

Strax Affair at the University of New Brunswick

By: Peter C. Kent (BA'59, BEd'65)

Published by: Formac 2012 • ISBN-10: 1-4595-0148-9

In 1968-69, the University of New Brunswick was troubled by what began as demonstrations against the introduction of photo ID cards for faculty and student use. In September 1968, Norman Strax, a junior member of the physics department and a few students demonstrated against the use of ID cards in the Harriet Irving Library. This resulted in Strax being suspended by president Colin Mackay (BA'42, LLD'55) and ordered off the campus. Undeterred, Strax and his student followers occupied Strax's office in the biology building for a month and a half, during which time the Students' Representative Council, the Association of UNB Teachers faculty association and the Canadian Association of University Teachers became involved in the on-campus debate. Through extensive archival research and interviews with the participants, Kent demonstrates how the conflict arose out of Colin Mackay's presidency and indicates how the Strax Affair was instrumental in changing the corporate development of UNB.

Tena and Brian McLellan

A fitting tribute

UNB gave many things to Tena and Brian McLellan – an enjoyable student experience, a strong educational foundation and lasting friendships – but most importantly, it gave them each other.

“UNB has always held a very special place in both my husband’s and my life,” said Tena. “It was here that we met when we were students.”

Brian graduated with a bachelor of science degree in 1973, and by the time Tena received her bachelor of nursing degree in 1974, the pair had married and begun their life together. Their careers soon took them to Ottawa where they spent the next 30 years, but their pride in their UNB educations never diminished.

Tena worked as a nurse, a nursing educator and in hospital and nursing-home administration, while Brian held various positions with the Canada Customs and Revenue Agency before making what he called ‘a 180° turn’ – studying haute cuisine and becoming a chef. The pair returned to New Brunswick for their retirement.

After Brian passed away in September 2011, Tena decided to set up a bequest that would fund a scholarship in Brian’s name for science students and one in hers for those pursuing a nursing degree. Both will support students from Carleton County who have completed at least the minimum requirements for the first year of their degree program.

Tena noted the global impact UNB has had, stating that she believes the University has definitely fulfilled the expectation expressed by Sir Howard Douglas in 1829 at the opening of what was then King’s College, that it would “extend ... its capacities to do good” and “acquire, and ever maintain, a high and distinguished reputation, as a place of general learning and useful knowledge.”

Her hope in setting up this bequest and establishing these scholarships is to contribute to the education, character-building and positive student experience of future UNB students.

“When you reflect back on your life and the kind of legacy you would like to leave, you consider the influences that were strongest in your life, the experiences you most valued and how you can best help someone else,” said Tena. “This seemed like a fitting tribute.”

PLAN YOUR BEQUEST HELP TOMORROW’S STUDENTS

It’s easy to have an impact: A $25,000 bequest in your will can provide a $1,000 annual scholarship for UNB students forever.

Honourable Andy Scott

(1955-2013) BA'79

- Andrews senior fellow in social policy at UNB
- Executive director of NB Social Policy Research Network
- Member of Parliament
- Solicitor General
- Minister of Indian Affairs and Northern Development ➤

“Andy will be sorely missed, but his work lives on. Without a doubt, he has earned his rest,” UNB president Eddy Campbell (taken from page 3, Presidents' Messages)

Gordon A. Lebel

(BPE'70, BA'71, MED'74, PD-ED'74)

ON NOV. 20 of this year family, friends and members of the UNB family will mark the first anniversary of the sudden and untimely passing of Gordon Allen Lebel (BPE'70, BA'71, MED'74, PD-ED'74).

For those who had the pleasure of knowing Gordie from his many walks of life, this day will bring a tear to our eyes. However, his memory will bring a chuckle to our hearts as we recall the many stories that so aptly describe this eclectic person.

Gord was a complex man who adored his family, especially his wife, Gail (BBS'86, MBA'96), and cherished his friends.

He possessed a multitude of interests and hobbies, however his association with UNB was a dominant part of his life; as an undergrad, Red Raiders basketball player, graduate student, and finally as director of the Aitken Centre.

In 2007, John McLaughlin presented him with a President's Citation in recognition of his service and commitment to UNB. Gord treasured this citation.

Although his presence is surely missed, his spirit will remain in our hearts forever!

Edited from a contribution by Gary Donahee (BPE'70), Gord's classmate and friend, Frisco, TX ➤

MAY 1, 2012 - APRIL 30, 2013

I want to thank you, our valued donors, for the support you have provided to our students, faculty and programs.

UNB has long succeeded in developing tomorrow's leaders through today's expertise and guidance. By providing access to world-class research and learning, we foster an environment where innovative thinkers become leaders who shape the world.

This is all made possible through the support of alumni and friends like you.

With best wishes,

Eddy Campbell
President and Vice-Chancellor

At left: Shannon Adams, a fourth-year environmental management student from Rusagonis, NB, received the Perley and Phyllis Estey Bursary.

GIVING CIRCLES

UNB places a high priority on recognizing donors for their financial support.

The three circles celebrating annual undesignated and designated donations received between May 1 and April 30 of $1,000 and more are:

Chancellor's Circle

Recognizes donors who have given or pledged $10,000 or more in a year.

Governors' Circle

Recognizes donors who have given or pledged $5,000 - $9,999 in a year.

President's Circle

Recognizes donors who have given or pledged $1,000 - $4,999 in a year.

If you have questions regarding this gift recognition program, please contact us:

After a pair of positive, yet distinctively different clinical work experiences at the Saint John Regional Hospital, Rebecca Agnew knows she will need to make a difficult career decision in the coming year. During her work term, the nursing student gained valuable experience in the cardiac care unit as well as in the labour and delivery wing.

“I have been very lucky to find several areas I have enjoyed during my clinical experiences through the nursing program at UNBSJ,” said Rebecca, a graduate of Kennebecasis Valley High School. “The downside is that in a year’s time, when I will be a registered nurse, I will have to decide between my interests.”

Rebecca credits her parents, Cindy and Stephen, and friends for their support. “It makes it a little easier to have someone next to you who understands exactly what you are going through.”

She also relied on, and tremendously appreciated, donors’ contributions.

“Knowing that I am not accumulating a debt that will take me 20 years to pay off is a huge stress reliever,” she said.

REBECCA AGNEW

Rebecca Agnew is a fourth-year nursing student who received the Francis Hugh Scovil Scholarship in Nursing.

TRUST & ENDOWMENT REPORT

Principal Growth 2007-2013 (as of April 2013)

The University's Trust & Endowment consists of endowed or expendable gifts that are generally restricted by the donor for a specific purpose. An endowed gift is one in which the donor specifies that the gift principal is to be invested in perpetuity and only the investment income earned can be spent on the specified purpose. An expendable gift is one where the donor indicates that both the gift principal and any investment income earned on the gift may be spent.

The Board of Governors has established a spending policy for endowed gifts which is designed to ensure a steady and consistent stream of income for expenditures, even if an account's principal fluctuates from year to year. In any year in which investment returns exceed the return required to support the level of endowment spending permitted under the spending policy, the excess return is allocated to a timing reserve. The timing reserve is utilized to support spending in those years when actual returns are less than the long-term target. In this way, the University is able to maintain stable spending rates despite year to year fluctuations in actual returns within normal market cycles.

The Long-Term Investment Fund for the Trust & Endowment accounts had a return of 9.52% for the year ended April 30, 2013, exceeding the policy benchmark by 93 basis points. This followed returns of 0.88% for the year ended April 30, 2012 and 10.02% for the year ended April 30, 2011.

Overall performance in 2013 was mainly driven by strong returns in global equities. The Fund's global equity allocation earned 18.18%, trailing the MSCI World Index (Cad) by 74 basis points in a strong market as the Fund's global equity managers were defensively positioned. Canadian Equities returned 5.60% compared to the S&P/TSX Composite Index return of 4.53%, and Canadian Bonds returned 5.69%, compared to the DEX Universe Index of 5.60%. The excess return over the benchmark index return for these asset classes represents value added by the respective managers through active management of the portfolio.

Changes in Trust & Endowment Balance - 2012/13 (Market Value)

	($ 000's)
Balance April 30, 2013	189,032
Balance April 30, 2012	175,138
Net Increase During the Year	$ 13,894

Increase Due to:

Donations and Other Additions to Capital	11,295
Investment Income	16,512
Transfers from Central Endowment Priority Trust Fund	199
Spending	(14,112)
	$ 13,894

The severe downturn in world financial markets in 2008 had a significant impact on North American university endowments and long-term trust funds. UNB's Fund lost 16.3% in the 12-months ended April 30, 2009. Many organizations with endowments were faced with similar sudden dramatic declines in asset values and were unable to support continued consistent levels of spending during these times.

In these circumstances, UNB took extraordinary measures to preserve and protect the endowment accounts while maintaining a strategic level of spending on scholarships and bursaries. UNB's approach was specific to the financial condition of each individual account. Measures included:

- Spending from accounts if sufficient funds were available;
- Spending from a special central endowment priority trust fund – a special fund created from internal departmental budgets and central priority funds. (Over the last four years, a total of almost $1.5 million of endowment spending was funded from the central endowment priority trust fund.);
- In some cases, donors chose to top up fund balances in order to continue spending patterns.

As a result of this approach, UNB has been able to maintain the level of spending on scholarships and bursaries through this period of significant market volatility.

Since 2008 expectations for investment earnings have been lowered as interest rates have fallen dramatically and financial markets continue to be erratic. As a result of these conditions, expectations for annual spending have also been lowered. UNB has taken a prudent, fiscally responsible approach to endowment spending, making incremental changes to the spending rate to ensure that the rate is sustainable while remaining competitive with other Canadian universities. The spending rate, which was 4.25% in 2012-13, has been reduced to 4.0% in 2013-14.

Jonah Tremblay's initial interest in electrical engineering started innocently enough when, at a young age, he began tinkering with a small magnetic motor kit his grandparents gave him as a gift.

Naturally curious, the Hanwell, NB native vividly recalls the first time he received an electrical shock, "after having put together an old electric motor circuit and holding the switch in my hand as I turned it on." Now, as he prepares for his final year in the University of New Brunswick's electrical engineering program, Jonah has a vision of making a difference in the energy field.

"I am really passionate about the environment and trying to conserve it," says Jonah, who worked this summer in the co-op program with Irving Oil in Saint John. Jonah says the impact donors have on the university experience is immeasurable.

"The assistance has allowed me to put more time into my studies and achieve a better understanding of the material as well as having the time for extra-curricular activities, like student societies and volunteer firefighting," he said.

As challenging as earning his degree is, he is not going to stop his pursuit of knowledge when he leaves campus. "I would love to find a company to work for that continuously challenges me, and puts me in a position to use my business courses in conjunction with engineering."

JONAH TREMBLAY

Jonah Tremblay is a fourth-year electrical engineering student who received the Dr. Douglas G. Pincock Electrical Engineering Scholarship.

MELISSA LEIGHTON

Melissa Leighton graduated with a bachelor of business administration degree with distinction in May 2013. She received the Richard Burpee Scholarship.

Melissa Leighton, who graduated this spring with a bachelor of business administration in accounting, credits her success to co-op work terms and early training from her grandfather. “He taught me how to add and subtract numbers before I even knew my ABCs, or how to spell my name,” Melissa said.

After graduating from St. Stephen High School, Melissa selected the Saint John campus largely because of the opportunities presented through the business program and its co-op initiative. “I wanted that real-life experience,” she said.

There were other benefits as well, she said, adding that the program helped her mature and develop her confidence. “I was nervous at first, as I used to be a very ‘keep to myself’ type of person. Fortunately, the co-op program allowed me to become a professional and come out of my shell.”

Thanks to her academic success, enhanced by her co-op work terms, Melissa has joined J.D. Irving and is working toward her C.A. designation. She also believes the scholarship support she received was critically important. “These donors helped me throughout university, giving me the peace of mind that I would be able to make it through university without extreme debt.”

BETHANY REINHART

Bethany Reinhart, a fourth-year bachelor of science student majoring in environmental biology, received the Leslie E. Bruce Environmental Scholarship.

Armed with the Leslie E. Bruce Environmental Scholarship and a sense of adventure, Bethany Reinhart, an environmental biology major from Quispamsis, NB, took advantage of UNB's popular study abroad program this past year. Spending a term in Tasmania was confirmation for her that she wants to build her career while making a difference to her community and country.

"I could never have travelled there if it weren't for the donors. The term I spent in Tasmania was the best experience of my life" says Bethany. "After graduation I would love to be an intern for an organization like Ducks Unlimited or perhaps a group that is removing contaminants from our soil."

JAKE WILDMAN-SISK

“Adventuresome” is a good way to describe Jake Wildman-Sisk.

He spent one summer on a ten-week internship in Bhutan as part of a group from the UNB Renaissance College program, assisting developments in the community and playing an active role in leadership with the Bhutanese youth.

He enrolled at the University of Birmingham in England for a semester as part of an academic exchange. He followed this in June by walking the Camino de Santiago pilgrimage in Spain, an 800-kilometre trek to raise global awareness for the Right to Play movement.

This fall, he’s back in Fredericton, immersed in the faculty of business administration, where he’ll be participating in the highly-regarded Activator program.

“I was not sure exactly what I wanted to do, but one of my mottos is ‘Be exceptional, take on leadership roles and try to do something different.’”

As a freshman he gained perspective on student life as a member of the UNB men’s soccer team, where he earned an Academic All-Canadian award. It was part of a plan for the Barrie, ON, native to make sure he gained a complete appreciation of campus life at UNB.

Jake, recipient of the John F. Bassett Memorial Scholarship, says, “Scholarships are given with no complications. You want to give back and the way to do that is by doing well in school.”

Ms. Jennifer L. Allaby*

Grant Virgin, a graduate student in forestry from Ottawa, ON, received the Dorothy and Kenneth Langmaid Forest Soils and Tree Growth Scholarship.

Dulanga Ranasinghe gained an unexpected benefit after she was named one of the inaugural recipients of the Schulich Leader Scholarships at UNB – a boost in self-confidence.

“This is a huge relief for my family and me and I’m very grateful for it,” she said. “Winning such a prestigious scholarship has also given me a lot of self-confidence. It has motivated me to put more effort into everything that I do.”

Dulanga is one of 40 Canadian students recognized for excellence in academics and community leadership who plan to study science, technology, engineering or mathematics.

Immersed in UNB’s biology-chemistry honours program, Dulanga is focused on preparing for medical school and being active within her community. She hopes to volunteer with Doctors Without Borders someday. For now, she is enjoying the university experience and volunteers as treasurer for her residence house committee.

Dulanga, a graduate from James M. Hill Memorial High School in Miramichi, NB, was impressed by UNB’s reputation as one of the top four schools in Maclean’s annual university rankings.

“I knew UNB was the university for me,” she said. “Professors are very friendly and approachable. They go out of their way to make everything as clear as possible. And residence is truly a home away from home. I have made great friends.”

DULANGA RANASINGHE

Dulanga Ranasinghe is a second-year biology-chemistry major and has received the Schulich Leader Scholarship.

GREG BAILEY

Greg Bailey, a Currie Scholar, is a fourth-year chemical engineering student.

Greg Bailey has always been motivated by a desire to ‘fix things.’ And he’s brought this desire to UNB.

Since arriving in 2010, Greg has been an active member of the UNB community and was recently elected vice-president external of the Student Union. He’s also pursuing entrepreneurial opportunities with fellow UNB students.

Using a concept developed by Frank Collins, assistant dean of engineering, Greg, along with Garrett Nelson and Stephen Likely, both fourth-year chemical engineering students, have established Black Magic, a cleaning product that quickly wipes away dirt, grease, paint and grime from your hands. They have recently received an infusion of cash from the New Brunswick Innovation Foundation after finishing as second runner-up in the 2013 Breakthru Competition. They will also be provided the opportunity to pitch their product nationally, having won the associated audience competition.

Greg came to UNB in large part because of Richard J. Currie’s faith in him. “It all comes back to that scholarship, to be honest,” Greg said. “I told them I was going to earn every penny of it.”

Combining the demands of academics and entrepreneurship is an exhausting process but hugely rewarding, Greg says. “I am smiling. It is a tired smile but it is a smile.”

Dr. Gordon L. Baskerville, BScF '55, DSc '08

HELPING THE NEXT GENERATION

Gordon L. Baskerville made a career out of advocating that people put their ideas into action. In roles that varied from research scientist with the Canadian Forestry Service to professor and dean of forestry at UNB to New Brunswick's assistant deputy minister of Natural Resources, he was committed to the responsible development of Canada's forest resources by applying new advances in research and technology.

His much-cited research, innovative teaching methods and pioneering use of geographic information system technology transformed the way forestry management is approached, and the results of his work remain the accepted standard for the management of public forests in most provinces in Canada. In recognition of his many achievements as well as his years of service to our University, Gordon was awarded an honorary degree from UNB in 2008.

Gordon also believed in supporting his alma mater. Almost 30 years ago, he established a legacy gift to UNB of an insurance policy, of which the University was the beneficiary. Now, because of this generous donation to the Class of 1955 Forestry Alumni Scholarship, his influence on the future of forestry management will continue. In addition, students who may not have otherwise had the chance will be able to pursue careers in this important field of study.

"Gordon was a special man," said Gordon's wife, Laura. "He truly cared about his students and their progress. He wanted to make a difference – and I think he has done so."

The scholarship, established by the UNB Forestry Class of 1955, is awarded each year to a Fredericton campus student entering the fourth year of the forestry program.

"Our graduating class has stayed close throughout the years," said Vic Stewart, also a member of the 1955 forestry class. "We decided, with the urging of our classmate, Doug Bancroft, to set up the scholarship as a way of giving back. It was something we could do together and a way of helping out the next generation of forestry students."

"It is always so good to see a lifetime involvement with UNB," said UNB President and Vice-Chancellor Eddy Campbell. "It is a vital part of what we are about – we are a community, not just an educational institution."

KRISTINA MURPHY SEIZING OPPORTUNITIES

Kristina Murphy graduated in May 2013 with her kinesiology degree, thanks in part to her Alumni Undergraduate Scholarship.

THE RICH
CEN

Kristina is thrilled at the opportunities UNB's bachelor of science in kinesiology program has given her. Her experience working as a student-athletic therapist for the UNB Varsity Reds men's basketball team has opened doors to new possibilities.

"The biggest surprise was the confidence people had in my capabilities. I gained so much from applying what I learned in class to a real-life setting."

Thanks to the loyal support of alumni like you, outstanding students such as Kristina are able to expand their horizons and explore new opportunities.

Kristina is now applying her UNB experiences to make a difference in the lives of others.
