

Dr. Ziba Vaghri

Associate Professor

Faculty of Business

University of New Brunswick-Saint John, New Brunswick, Canada

Dr. Ziba Vaghri, Associate Professor in the Faculty of Business, University of New Brunswick, has more than 20 years of extensive research and international experience in the areas of child development, child nutrition, child rights and child health with a strong emphasis on the social determinants of health. Dr. Vaghri has a passion and strong desire for improving children's lives across the globe. She subscribes to the ideology that when it comes to children, our efforts should not be bound to political borders.

Dr. Vaghri's research excellence has been acknowledged by a number of distinguished bodies throughout her academic career. In 2014, she was recruited for a term employment as the Early Childhood Development (ECD) Technical Officer of the World Health Organization Headquarters in Geneva. In 2015, she received the five-year Prestigious Scholar Award from the Michael Smith Foundation for Health Research and spent the duration of this award at the University of Victoria until she was recruited by the University of New Brunswick in 2020.

Dr. Vaghri has implemented ground-breaking provincial and international forums for facilitating the transfer of knowledge in child rights, health, and development. She cofounded the International Program of the Human Early Learning Partnership (I-HELP), a center of excellence for research and development related to the early years, at the University of British Columbia (UBC) in 2008 and led I-HELP in the capacity of Program Director until 2014. In 2018-19, she led the world-wide study 'Global Child Rights Dialogue \(GCRD\)' which sought the insights and opinions of over 2000 children from 43 countries across the world on their rights under the United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child. In 2019, Vaghri set up the BC Child Rights Symposium, the province's first child rights symposium ever, to inform relevant stakeholders of the findings from her pilot of the Early Childhood Rights Indicators' \(ECRI\) child protection cluster.

Dr. Vaghri is a recognized international researcher in early child development and child rights, and one of the leading scholars creating linkages between these two fields. She led the process of developing the Early Childhood Rights Indicators \(ECRI\), a child rights monitoring tool for young children (0-8 years). ECRI is a tool developed by an international team of experts working under the auspices of the United Nations Committee on the Rights of the Child. ECRI has been pilot tested in Tanzania, Chile and Canada (British Columbia). Dr. Vaghri is currently Principal Investigator for two multinational projects: GlobalChild, also under the guidance of the UN Committee on the Rights of the Child, funded by the Canadian Institutes of Health Research; and InspiRights: Good Practices to Inspire and Facilitate Children's Rights, funded by the Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council.

Dr. Vaghri has worked with different governments across the globe on ECD enhancing projects and has a strong track record with international development and UN agencies such as UNICEF, WHO, the UN CRC, and UNESCO. Her work has been acknowledged through letters of appreciation sent by Tanzania's Minister of Community, Child, and Gender and the Minister of the Shanghai Population and Family Planning Commissions sent to the President of the University of British Columbia (UBC). Dr. Vaghri's first book, "Monitoring State Compliance with the UN Convention on the Rights of the Child: An Analysis of Attributes," with co-authorship of the former chair of the UNCRC and two other prominent scholars of the field of child rights, was recently published by Springer.
